Dear Colleague

Request for a Psychological Assessment Report for Criminal Proceedings

Thank you for your enquiry. Please find attached a copy of my CV and a summary of the type of expert witness medico-legal reports we provide for criminal cases.

If you require the services of a psychiatrist, psychologist or medical practitioner with different expertise to mine, please advise of the same by return. Once I have sight of the information requested I would allocate your case to the most suitable psychologist, psychiatrist or general medical practitioner in our practice to take your case forward.

How to book your free initial advisory call

To arrange an initial free telephone advisory call to discuss your client's needs, please email my customer care team on wecare@advancedassessments.co.uk with your name, phone number and the best time to call you back in the subject header. Alternatively, you may contact us on 0208 2000078.

Free initial advisory calls are only available to solicitors, barristers or other qualified legal professionals. There is a fee of £75 for the initial advisory call if a lawyer does not represent you. You can pay the fee for the initial advisory call by PayPal. If you wish to pay by PayPal, please advise us of this by return, and we will arrange for Sankofa Financial Services Ltd (who handle our credit card transactions) to send you a credit card invoice. Alternatively, you can pay the initial advisory call fee by bank transfer to:

Please include your name as the reference.

How much will the expert witness medico-legal report cost?

Before the date of the initial advisory call, to advise on costs and prepare an estimate I need the following information:

To advise on costs, we need as much the following information as you can supply:

1. Copies of all of the relevant NHS and private medical notes;
2. The CPS Case file;
3. Copies of educational records, including educational psychologist's assessments,) if applicable
4. Reports of the Crown's experts;;
5. The Crown's Opening note, if one has been prepared;
6. Defence Counsel's advice on expert evidence;
7. The Defence statement;
8. Copies of any Offender Assessment System Assessment (OASys assessment);
9. Parole reports, if these exist;
10. Probation reports;
11. PNC extracts;
12. All prison medical records;
13. The deadline for or report;
14. Details of what your client's first language is and whether an interpreter will be necessary;
15. In indication of your client's current mental state;
16. A draft letter of instruction;
17. If your client is currently incarcerated the location of the prison;
18. Any reports held by Adult Social Services or Children's services; and
19. Witness statements, and proofs of evidence.

Could you please send us this information electronically by email (or by a link to a file such as Dropbox with a further paper copy by post). We need to see all documents, which would assist or harm your case. Please do not send original documents at this stage. We regret that without seeing this information, we are unable to provide an estimate for the medico-legal report.

I can advise that the current hourly rate for our psychologists is a minimum of £200 per hour plus VAT. Your bill would need to be paid before the release of the report.

Our fee structure for expert witness reports is organised into five levels linked to how you intend to use the report and the complexity of issues we must consider in discharging our duty to the court. The five levels of reporting we offer are:

- (1) Preliminary Expert witness reports: these assessments are designed for clients who are considering whether to use expert evidence in proceedings but are not sure whether there is sufficient medical evidence to defend or bring a claim. The minimum amount of time we devote to these triage reports is 7.5 hours. This equates to a fee of £1,500 plus VAT. If you proceed to a report at Level 1 or above the cost of the preliminary expert witness report will be credited to the overall fee, thus reducing the costs.
- (2) Level 1 Expert witness reports: The minimum amount of time that is required to produce a report that is suitable for use in legal proceedings is 25 hours. Reports drafted in less than 25 hours are likely to be a false economy — they do not meet the rigorous minimum standards required of a competent expert witness psychologist. We operate on the reputation of rigorous analysis and high-quality work. Our overriding duty is to the court, and we have found through experience and analysing the reports of other experts that it is not possible to produce a quality expert psychologist report in less than 25 hours. We normally work much longer than the number of hours given in our cost estimates without additional charge to produce robust reports that result in early settlement of claims, thus reducing the overall cost of litigation.

- (3) Level 2 Expert witness reports: more comprehensive coverage is often required. Where this is the case, it might take 27 to 50 hours to properly answer the questions that need to be addressed by the court.
- (4) Level 3 Expert witness reports: more complex cases such as those involving neuropsychological assessment are likely to take between 51 to 72 hours to complete proficiently.
- (5) Level 4 Expert witness reports: assessments of more than one individual or assessments of very complex cases such as murder or substantial frauds are likely to take more than 72 hours to skilfully complete.

Cases with fewer documents for assessment are not always less complex. The amount of time required will ultimately depend on the quality of the evidence, the complexity of the instructions and factors which relate to the individual who is to be assessed. Thus, it is impossible to advise on the costs of the assessment without seeing all the evidence.

If your client is currently in receipt of legal aid, we are only able to carry out an assessment at the legal aid rate if you can provide proof of public funding in the form of a document bearing the current Legal Aid Agency reference number or unique funds number (UFN).

Thank you again for your enquiry, we look forward to working with you.

Kind regards

Yours faithfully

SUMMARY PROFILE

I have built up a practice with many solicitors, insurance companies, local authorities and government departments. I also take instructions directly from individuals. I have appeared in and prepared reports for, the County Court, the High Court, Crown Court, magistrates' court and Tribunals for both defendants and claimants. I am known for my hard work, excellent client care and meticulous preparation of cases, often exceeding 40,000 pages. My background in business and human resources is a strength when advising on white-collar crime, health and safety and regulatory proceedings. I have over 20 years' experience in the assessment of individuals in occupational, forensic, clinical and educational settings. I cover all areas of personal injury and medical negligence including the ability to work; road traffic accidents; anxiety; mental health, psychological harm, workplace injuries, workplace stress, occupational health, ill health retirements, bullying, sexual abuse, post-traumatic stress disorder (PTSD) and neuropsychological assessments. I have considerable experience in equality and diversity. Specialist interests include assessment of head injuries and memory loss, psychological testing, children, families, assessment of intellectual functioning, and assessments that consider the impact of drugs, alcohol and strokes. I have experience in assessing the effects of injury on the loss of earnings. Solicitors consistently praise my work; my expert reports have frequently secured convictions and acquittals. More than 95% of cases settle on the basis of my reports. Waiting times are short.

We deliver a range of expert witness services for legal professionals. Expert witness services are provided by us in conjunction with a number of leading specialists. We draw on professionals from a wide range of disciplines, including the areas of psychology, psychiatry and general medicine. Our experts are rigorously vetted and assessed.

We work across all areas of criminal law including offences against the person, violent crime, sexual offences, fraud and deception and offences relating to drugs, public order offences, falsification, forgery, counterfeiting, theft, handling stolen goods, non-fatal offences against the person, homicide and related offences.

Our high quality services are specifically designed to meet the needs of publically-funded clients.

Forensic Assessments

We have a wealth of experience in working in the areas of forensic psychology and forensic medicine. We produce timely psychological assessment reports within five days of seeing your client. We are often able to arrange an assessment on the same day that we receive formal confirmation of funding.

We have extensive knowledge of psychological factors in criminal behaviour and produce robust medico-legal reports.

Our multi-cultural, multi-disciplinary team of expert witnesses provides reports on a number of areas including:

- Risk assessments
- Pre-sentencing reports
- Recommendations for parole
- Suitability for progression or release
- Neuropsychological assessment
- Fraud
- Criminal responsibility
- Suggestibility
- Personality profiling
- Fitness to stand trial
- Fitness to plead
- Ability to consent

As far as forensic accounting is concerned, we are able to deal with the most complex money laundering and fraud cases. Experienced chartered accountants carefully examine the evidence and present accessible reports for the court. Particular areas of expertise are:

- Theft
- Misappropriation
- False accounting
- Asset tracing
- Income tracking
- Proceeds of crime confiscation orders
- Fraud
- Credit card fraud
- Tax/subsidy fraud
- Customs and Excise/VAT fraud
- Benefits fraud

Assessment of Criminal Responsibility

We provide invaluable information to courts in criminal proceedings. Our expert witness psychologists, psychiatrists and medical practitioners have extensive experience in preparing expert reports for courts — both for the prosecution and defence. Whether it is an assessment of a client's competence to stand trial or an evaluation of underlying psychological disorders, our psychologists are able to communicate their findings in a manner accessible to the court and jury. We stand above other expert witness practices in that our Managing Director is both medically and legally trained.

We can offer a wide range of assessments both prior to and post conviction including:

- False confessions and assessment of suggestibility in police interviews
- Fitness to plead (including intellectual ability)
- Suggestibility
- Management of sexual offenders in the community
- Advice on the detection and management of psychiatric disorders by the police and prison services
- Criminal responsibility and compliance in people with learning disability
- The need for an appropriate adult
- Defences of automatism
- Determining whether the offender had the intellectual ability to understand the nature and quality of their act
- Determining whether the victim had the intellectual capacity to consent (particularly in rape and fraud cases)
- Strength of eye witness testimony
- Assessment and diagnosis of psychopathy
- Levels of depression, anxiety, social integration and skills, trauma, past events and other underlying psychopathology and psychological distress
- The tendency to be influenced by others and level of vulnerability
- IQ, fitness to plead, capacity to understand proceedings, capacity to predict consequences, need for involvement of appropriate adult
- Neuropsychological assessments
- False memory syndrome
- Witness reliability
- Analysis of ABE interviews

Assessments for Sentencing

Judges rely on our reports for sentencing. We are able to ensure that all the relevant facts are before the court when considering the best method of disposal of the case.

Psychological assessments in these cases often address issues of:

- Offender risk assessment, including sexual offenders and violent offences
- Capacity for change
- Risk assessments of the likelihood of further offending
- The effect of custodial sentence on vulnerable personalities, with particular reference to suicide risks and physical health
- Effects on the offending behaviour: what is normal behaviour?
- Assessment of trauma victims
- Assessment of past psychological trauma on the offender
- Assessment of the individual's capacity to change behaviour
- Reviews of other psychological or medical reports
- Personality assessments
- Pre-sentencing reports
- Assessing the suitability of offender treatment programmes
- Selecting sex offender and violent offender treatment programmes

Risk Assessments

We carry out offender risk assessments; they are typically based on a review of a number of sources of information including:

- (a) A detailed clinical interview
- (b) Psychometric testing
- (c) An interview with the prison officers and family members
- (d) A review of the pre-sentence report
- (e) A review of medical records
- (f) A review of the indictment

Personality assessment

Personality is assessed for psychopathology (e.g. depression, anxiety, and aggression). A comprehensive assessment of psychopathology is carried out and the assessment includes the respondent's approach to the test, including faking good or bad, exaggeration, or defensiveness. There are clinical scales that correspond to psychiatric diagnostic categories, and treatment consideration scales that assess factors that may relate to the treatment of clinical disorders or other risk factors, but which are not captured in psychiatric diagnoses (e.g. suicidal thoughts). Finally, the assessment includes interpersonal scales, which provide indicators of interpersonal dimensions of personality functioning.

Intellectual assessment

Clients also complete an assessment of their cognitive skills. The results are used to assess whether there is any intellectual or cognitive impairments.

Assessment of current thinking style

Assessment of the current thinking style determines whether the individual has come to terms with the seriousness of the offences. This information is gained in part from the clinical interview.

An assessment of engagement in high risk and reckless behaviour is undertaken by using the STATIC-99 test designed to estimate the probability of reoffending. Other assessment techniques may also be used to identify additional important risk factors.

The psychometric test is used to predict whether the defendant is likely to respond to, or reject, treatment.

Clinical Assessments

An assessment is most commonly carried out for clinical and therapeutic purposes to establish a diagnosis and identify the individual's problems.

Our assessments cover the whole spectrum of adult psychopathology, developmental disorders, anxiety, affective disorders (depression) and organic mental disorders. Disorders, including pervasive developmental disorders (PDD) such as autistic spectrum disorders, attention and arousal problems, are comprehensively assessed.

We have specialists in neuropsychological assessments of neurological and neuropsychiatric disorders, such as epilepsy, head injury, strokes (CVA), memory problems and brain tumours. Our psychological diagnostic assessments include neuropsychological assessments of psychiatric, neuropsychiatric, neurological and neuropsychological problems. Our neuropsychologists use a specialised set of psychometric tools to assess functioning following acquired brain injury; these typically assess memory, personality and intellectual functions. These issues are often key in criminal cases.

We also assess psychosomatic problems such as psychological problems associated with physical illnesses, including high blood pressure and the impact this can have on criminal responsibility and fitness to plead.

We carry out assessments and interventions with people who have more severe and enduring mental health problems, including psychosis, personality and interpersonal difficulties, depression, anxiety, chronic fatigue syndrome and substance misuse. A number of our cases focus on violence, sexual violence, risk assessment, personality disorders and sexual deviations.

Psychiatric Assessments

Our psychiatric assessments are carried out by very experienced psychiatrists. They are often used in making a diagnosis and recommending ongoing support. Our psychiatric assessments are often requested in criminal cases.

The assessment includes social and biographical information, direct observations and data from specific psychological tests. It is typically carried out by a psychiatrist. It is often required in cases where insanity is pleaded by the defendant. However, it can also arise in cases where the court is concerned about the mental health of the defendant and where the court contemplates a Hospital Order or Mental Health Act issues arise.
